

Linda LaRoche
Chief Executive Officer

EXECUTIVES

As co-founder and Chief Executive Officer of Computer Systems Center Incorporated (CSCI) since its inception in 1987, Linda LaRoche provides an energetic leadership style, respectful and constructive management, and the vision to effectively and successfully promote the capabilities of both its employees and its products. She understands that employees are the backbone of her team and works hard to attract the best talent available.

Through honesty, hands-on leadership and philanthropic giving, Ms. LaRoche sets the standard at CSCI. She is committed to the promotion of philanthropy and volunteer work throughout Fairfax County and the Northern Virginia community. Through Ms. LaRoche's efforts CSCI has been a strong supporter of the March of Dimes, raising thousands of dollars for their efforts. She was also the founding president of the SemperComm Foundation, a nonprofit organization that provides morale-boosting communications and entertainment equipment, software and services to small, remote overseas U.S. military bases which aren't typically funded for such activities.

In 2007, Ms. LaRoche founded the recently established PEARL Women's Leadership Forum. A group that was initially formed in response to her desire to bring professional women together to exchange ideas that focus on the values of philanthropy, education, advancement, rewards and leadership.

Her considerable efforts and skills have brought her many accolades. Ms. LaRoche has received praise and recognition for CSCI's strong involvement to bettering the quality of life in our community thanks in large part to her passion for the community.

- SmartCEO Magazine – 2010 The Circle of Excellence Business Award
- Women in Technology and the March of Dimes – 2007 Heroine in Technology Award
- SmartCEO Magazine – 2007 Bravo! Women's Business Achievement Awards
- Washington Business Journal – 2005 Women Who Mean Business Award
- Springfield Chamber of Commerce – 2004 Corporate Citizen Award
- United States Coast Guard – 2004 Patriot Award

In addition, under Ms. LaRoche's leadership, both CSCI and its employees have won several awards for their expertise, creativity and community efforts.

As a resident of Fairfax County for more than thirty years, Ms. LaRoche has raised her family in the local community while developing a successful business supporting the federal government. For 17 years, Ms. LaRoche studied voice and piano at a conservatory, and has retained a keen interest in the arts; whereby, she used her talents to record classical and modern music for the 2007 and 2008 SemperComm Galas.
